

Panel Roundtable

Getting from science to policy and practice

How to make sure that research findings do not get lost in translation?

- Dr Yoko Izumi, Japan Agency for Medical Research and Development, Japan
- Celina Gorre, Executive Director, GACD, United Kingdom
- Dr Vilma Irazola, Institute for Clinical Effectiveness and Health Policy, Argentina
- Dr Hiroyuki Hori, Senior Coordinator for Global Health, International Affairs Division, Minister's Secretariat, Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare, Japan
- Prof Katsunori Kondo, Chiba University, Japan

Questions for each panel member:

- 1) What is the main mission/purpose of your organization?
- 2) What is the approach of your organisation to knowledge translation and implementation research?
- 3) Is this formalized in some way in your organisation or is there just an expectation that it will happen, automatically?

Other questions (if required)

- What are some of the tensions/challenges that you see arising between the different “worlds” of policy, practice, research and the general community?
- How do you try to address and/or reduce these issues/challenges?